1. Project Overview

This project is all about creating and running a real Facebook Ads campaign for a made-up entertainment company called "F.L.Y Entertainment". It's part of a Digital Marketing Internship Program, where the goal is to get some actual experience with social media advertising, figuring out who to target, making the campaign better, and looking at how it's doing using Meta Ads Manager. The idea is to learn by doing, and get a feel for what works and what doesn't in the world of online ads. By working on this project, we can get a better understanding of how to use Facebook Ads to reach the right people, and how to make the most of our advertising budget.

F.L.Y Entertainment is a youth-focused entertainment brand inspired by the global K-pop industry, featuring music performances, dance content, stage visuals, and fan engagement activities. The primary objective of the campaign was to increase brand awareness, audience engagement, and online visibility across Facebook and Instagram platforms.

The project includes multiple stages such as brand creation, audience research, ad creative development, campaign setup, budget allocation, ad placement configuration, and campaign performance tracking. Different advertising creatives including promotional posters and video-based advertisements were designed to analyze audience behavior and campaign effectiveness.

To see how well the campaign did, we used Meta Ads Manager and picked certain groups of people to show our ads to, like their age, what they're interested in, where they live, and how they interact with things online. We kept an eye on some important numbers, like how many people saw our ads, how many people we reached, how many people interacted with our ads, how many people visited our website, and how much it cost us to get each result. This helped us understand if our campaign was working well or not.

This project demonstrates the practical implementation of digital marketing strategies and highlights the importance of creative content, audience targeting, and campaign optimization in social media advertising.

2. TOOLS USED

Multiple tools and technologies were utilized during the development and execution of the “F.L.Y Entertainment” Facebook Ads Practice Campaign project. These tools played an essential role in website development, ad campaign management, creative designing, audience engagement, and performance analysis.

For frontend website development, technologies such as HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and React.js were used to create a responsive and visually engaging entertainment website. The website was developed to represent the F.L.Y Entertainment brand professionally and provide an online platform connected with the advertising campaigns.

We used Meta Ads Manager to create and manage ads on Facebook and Instagram. This included choosing the right audience, deciding how much to spend, and picking where the ads would appear. We also kept an eye on how the campaigns were doing. Additionally, Meta Business Suite helped us keep track of what was happening on our pages, how people were interacting with us, and how our ads were performing. This gave us valuable insights to make our ads even better.

We used a few different tools to get everything done. Canva was great for making posters, social media posts, and ads look good. GitHub helped us keep track of all the changes we made to the project, so we could always go back and see what we did. And Netlify was where we put the website so people could see it. We also got some help from ChatGPT, which made it easier to plan what we wanted to say, write the words for our ads, figure out our strategy, and put together reports on how everything was going.

These tools collectively helped in understanding the practical implementation of digital marketing strategies, campaign management, website deployment, and social media advertising within a professional workflow environment.

4. BRAND INTRODUCTION

F.L.Y Entertainment is a made-up brand that's all about entertaining young people, and it was created for a digital marketing project. This brand takes inspiration from the super popular K-pop industry around the world, where music, dance, fan engagement, and being creative with visuals are key to getting people's attention and building a community.

The primary vision of F.L.Y Entertainment is to create a modern entertainment platform that promotes music culture, dance performances, stage creativity, and youth talent engagement across digital platforms. The brand focuses mainly on attracting Gen-Z audiences who are highly active on social media platforms such as Facebook and Instagram.

The brand's visual identity was created with a dark and modern theme that's inspired by concerts. This theme was used for promotional posters, dance videos, performance videos, and ads that focus on the audience. To make the brand strong online, a Facebook page, Instagram profile, and website were made.

As part of this project, multiple social media marketing activities and Facebook advertising campaigns were implemented to analyze audience behavior, improve online engagement, and understand the practical workflow of digital advertising. The campaign strategy focused on brand awareness, audience interaction, and entertainment-based content promotion.

F.L.Y Entertainment represents a practical example of how digital marketing strategies can be applied within the entertainment industry to build brand visibility and audience engagement through Meta advertising platforms.

5. MARKET & AUDIENCE RESEARCH

Understanding what people like and how they behave is really important when it comes to promoting things online. So, for the F.L.Y Entertainment project, we did some research to see why music and dance are getting so popular, especially among younger people in India. We're talking about things like K-pop and how it's influencing the kind of entertainment people are into these days. By doing this research, we can get a better idea of what our audience likes and doesn't like, which helps us create ads that actually work. It's all about knowing your audience before you start trying to reach them with your message. This way, we can make sure our ads are seen by the people who are most likely to be interested in what we have to offer.

The entertainment industry has experienced significant growth on digital platforms such as Facebook, Instagram, and YouTube, where short-form videos, concert visuals, dance performances, and fan-based communities generate high audience engagement. K-pop groups such as BTS and BLACKPINK have influenced global entertainment trends, especially among young social media users who actively engage with music, fashion, choreography, and performance content.

The people we wanted to reach with our campaign were mostly between 18 and 65 years old. This group included students, people who love music, those learning to dance, fans of K-pop, and anyone on social media who likes entertainment. We focused on big cities like Mumbai, Delhi, Bangalore, Hyderabad, Ahmedabad, and Pune because lots of people there use social media and are into entertainment. These cities are great for targeting our audience because they have a high level of engagement with entertainment content online. By targeting these areas, we hoped to catch the attention of people who would be interested in what we have to offer. Our campaign was designed to appeal to a wide range of people, from young adults to older individuals, who share a common interest in music, dance, and entertainment.

Interest-based targeting options such as K-pop music, dance performance, choreography, concerts, hip-hop culture, and music festivals were selected within Meta Ads Manager to improve campaign relevance and audience interaction.

6. CAMPAIGN OBJECTIVES

The main goal of this Facebook Ads project was to get hands-on experience with Meta's digital advertising tools. We created a campaign for a fake entertainment company called "F.L.Y Entertainment" to learn how to make and manage ads. The plan was to make the brand more visible, get people talking about it, and boost its presence on Facebook and Instagram. By doing this, we wanted to see how effective Facebook ads can be in reaching our target audience and getting them engaged with the brand. This project was a great way to learn about the different aspects of digital advertising and how to use them to achieve our goals.

The main goal of this campaign was to get the name of F.L.Y Entertainment out there, especially among younger people who love music, dancing, and all things entertainment, including K-pop. To do this, the team created eye-catching posters, promotional graphics, and video ads that would really grab people's attention and make them want to learn more about the brand. By using these visually appealing materials, the campaign hoped to introduce F.L.Y Entertainment to a whole new audience and make a lasting impression on fans of music, dance, and pop culture. This was a big opportunity for the brand to connect with Gen-Z audiences and show them what they're all about.

The goal was to get more people involved and interested in what we were doing, so we tried to boost likes, comments, shares, and views on our videos and visits to our website. To figure out what worked best, we created different ads and tested them out on our target audience to see which type of content they liked more.

The campaign also focused on learning important advertising concepts such as audience targeting, ad placement selection, budget allocation, bidding strategy, campaign optimization, and performance monitoring using Meta Ads Manager.

This project was also about giving students hands-on experience with how digital marketing works, including social media, coming up with creative ideas, and looking at the numbers to see what's working. It was a real-world test of using Meta's advertising tools to reach and engage with young people in the entertainment industry.

7. AD CREATIVE STRATEGY

To grab the attention of young people who love entertainment, F.L.Y Entertainment came up with a plan to make their ads stand out on Facebook and Instagram. They wanted to create a strong visual identity that would make their brand look cool and appealing. The team got inspiration from the latest K-pop concerts, music performances, and stage lighting effects, as well as branding techniques that are popular among young people. By using these modern and trendy elements, they aimed to make their ads eye-catching and engaging for their target audience.

The campaign utilized a combination of promotional posters and video-based advertisements to maximize audience engagement and brand awareness. Dark-themed visual designs with purple, black, and neon-style color combinations were selected to create a premium entertainment appearance. Bold typography, performance visuals, and call-to-action elements such as “Join Us” and “Experience the Energy” were incorporated to improve audience interaction.

When it comes to video ads, the entertainment industry often turns to clips of dance performances, rehearsal footage, and cinematic content shot on stage. This is because videos tend to get more people engaged than static images. To make promotional posters, the team used Canva, which helped keep the branding and visual style consistent throughout. By using the same look and feel across all promotional materials, the message gets across more clearly and effectively.

The plan for being creative also made sure to keep things looking good on mobile devices, have messages that are easy to understand, and use high-quality pictures that work well for ads on social media sites like Facebook and Instagram, including the main feed, stories, and short videos.

Overall, the creative approach was designed to improve audience attention, increase engagement, and establish a visually recognizable entertainment brand identity for F.L.Y Entertainment across digital platforms.

8. FACEBOOK PAGE & INSTAGRAM SETUP

To get F.L.Y Entertainment's name out there, we set up professional profiles on Facebook and Instagram. We made sure these profiles were complete and looked good before starting our ad campaigns. These social media sites were our main way of talking to our audience, promoting our brand, and getting our ads seen by the right people.

The Facebook page for F.L.Y Entertainment was set up to look professional and fun, with a custom logo, cover picture, and description that tells people what the company is about. The page also has contact information and posts that try to get people excited about what F.L.Y Entertainment is doing. The goal was to make the page look good and trustworthy, so people would feel okay about interacting with the ads. To keep people interested, the page was updated with all sorts of entertainment-related posts, pictures, and videos. This helped keep the audience engaged and active on the page.

We also made an Instagram account for our business to help our brand on social media and reach younger people who like short videos. Our Instagram page had our brand's pictures, posters, and videos of our performances, and we made sure all the information was the same as on our other social media accounts.

We used Meta Business tools to link the two platforms, which made it easier to manage ads, target the right people, and keep track of how our campaigns were doing through Meta Ads Manager. Setting everything up helped us see how social media branding and digital marketing campaigns work together in the real world, and how they fit into the bigger picture of Meta's advertising system. This hands-on experience gave us a better understanding of how to use Meta's tools to reach our audience and get the most out of our ads.

The way Facebook and Instagram were set up was really important for creating an online presence for F.L.Y Entertainment and helping their advertising campaigns work well.

9. META ADS CAMPAIGN SETUP

The Meta Ads Campaign for F.L.Y Entertainment was created and managed using Meta Ads Manager to gain practical experience in social media advertising and campaign management. The campaign setup process involved selecting campaign objectives, configuring audience targeting, setting advertisement placements, managing budgets, and publishing promotional advertisements across Facebook and Instagram platforms.

The main goal of this project was to get more people to know about F.L.Y Entertainment, so we chose to focus on making the brand more well-known. We wanted to introduce the brand to people who are really into entertainment. To do this, we used different types of ads, like videos and interactive content, to get people engaged and interested in the brand. This way, we could reach more people and get them to interact with the brand. By using these different ad formats, we hoped to increase visibility and make F.L.Y Entertainment a household name in the entertainment industry.

We set up our audience targeting to focus on people of certain ages, locations, and interests. We also looked at what kind of entertainment they liked. The people we targeted were mainly fans of K-pop music, dance performances, and concerts. They were also into choreography and youth entertainment culture. To get our ads to the right people, we used automatic placements. This let Meta's algorithm decide where to put our ads, whether it was in the Facebook Feed, Instagram Feed, Reels, or Stories. That way, we could reach our target audience in the most effective way possible. By doing this, we hoped to get our message across to the people who would be most interested in what we had to offer.

The campaign budget was configured on a daily spending basis to manage advertisement costs efficiently while testing audience engagement and creative performance.

Advertisement creatives including posters and dance performance videos were uploaded during the ad setup process.

Meta Ads Manager also provided access to campaign monitoring tools such as reach, impressions, engagement tracking, and landing page view analysis. This setup process helped in understanding the practical workflow of creating and managing professional digital advertising campaigns within the Meta ecosystem.

10. TARGET AUDIENCE ANALYSIS

Target audience analysis was conducted to identify the most relevant users for the F.L.Y Entertainment advertising campaign. Since the brand is focused on entertainment, music performances, dance culture, and K-pop-inspired content, the campaign primarily targeted younger social media audiences with strong interest in digital entertainment and performance-based media.

The target audience was mostly made up of Gen-Z users, who are between 16 and 28 years old. This age group is really active on social media platforms like Facebook and Instagram. They love watching short videos, listening to music, and checking out concert visuals, dance performances, and entertainment communities. To reach as many people as possible and get them engaged, the audience included both men and women. By focusing on this age group, the campaign could tap into their online habits and interests, making it more likely to resonate with them.

When it comes to reaching the right people, location matters. So, the focus was on India, especially big cities like Mumbai, Delhi, and Bangalore. These places have a lot of people using the internet and social media, which makes them perfect for targeting. But that's not all - the goal was also to reach people who are really into certain things. Using Meta Ads Manager, the plan was to target people who like K-pop, groups like BTS and BLACKPINK, and even things like dance performances and hip-hop culture. By doing this, the message would get to the people who are most likely to care about it. This way, the ads would be seen by people in cities like Hyderabad, Pune, and Ahmedabad, who are not only online a lot but also have interests that align with the content.

To make ads more effective, the company used a special approach called behavioral targeting. This helped show ads to people who were really interested in entertainment content. They also used automatic ad placements to reach more people on Facebook, Instagram, and other platforms. By doing this, the ads were more relevant to the people seeing them, which made it more likely that they would engage with the content. This strategy was used on Facebook Feed, Instagram Feed, Stories, and Reels to reach a wider audience.

11. BUDGET & BIDDING STRATEGY

Budget and bidding strategy play an important role in improving the efficiency and reach of digital advertising campaigns. For the F.L.Y Entertainment Brand Awareness campaign, a controlled budgeting approach was implemented to maximize audience reach and advertisement visibility across Facebook and Instagram platforms using Meta Ads Manager.

The campaign used a simple plan to control how much was spent on ads each day. This meant that the same amount of money, ₹95, was set aside every day to keep ads running and reach people who like music, dance, and K-pop. By doing this, the campaign could keep promoting the entertainment brand to young people, known as Gen-Z, without overspending. This daily budget was chosen to make sure the brand's message was seen by the right people every day.

To get the most out of ads, Meta used bidding strategy that lets a special decide how the platform to. This way, the ads can show ads to people reach the most people and have the biggest all while keeping costs as impact, low as possible. The were also set ads in lots of different places, like the up to appear Instagram feeds, Stories, Reels, and the Facebook and, to Explore sections reach as many people as possible.

The main goal of our budget plan was to get more people to know our brand, reach a bigger audience, and make a splash on social media without breaking the bank. We kept a close eye on how our ads were doing, looking at things like how many people saw them, how many times they were shown, how people interacted with them, and how much it cost us each time someone took action. This helped us figure out if our campaign was working and if people were actually paying attention to what we were saying. By checking in on these numbers regularly, we could make sure our budget was being used in the best way possible to get our message out there.

This budget and bidding strategy provided practical understanding of advertisement cost management, Meta optimization systems, and professional campaign budgeting techniques within social media advertising platforms.

14. PERFORMANCE ANALYTICS

To see how well the F.L.Y Entertainment ads were doing on Facebook and Instagram, we took a close look at the numbers. We used Meta Ads Manager to track some key things: how many people saw the ads, how many times they were shown, how people interacted with them, how many people visited the website after clicking on an ad, and what was happening with the ads overall. This helped us understand what was working and what wasn't during the time the ads were running.

The Brand Awareness and Video Advertisement campaigns successfully generated audience visibility and engagement among entertainment-focused users. Metrics such as impressions and reach indicated that the advertisements were successfully delivered to the targeted Gen-Z audience interested in music, dance performances, and K-pop-inspired content.

Videos really grab people's attention, especially when they're entertaining. It's no surprise that they get more interaction than static ads. By looking at how many people viewed the landing page and engaged with the content, we could see how well the campaign was working and if it was reaching the right people. This helped us figure out what was effective and what wasn't, across different platforms.

Looking at how ads performed helped us understand how they were delivered, how the budget was used, and how people interacted with them on different platforms like Facebook, Instagram, and Reels. We also got to see which ads and targeting methods worked best with our audience. By tracking performance, we were able to identify what was working and what wasn't, and make changes to get better results. This included seeing which ad creatives and targeting strategies got the most engagement from our audience during the campaign.

Overall, the campaign analytics provided practical understanding of Meta performance tracking systems, audience engagement behavior, advertisement optimization techniques, and digital marketing reporting workflow within social media advertising campaigns.

17. CHALLENGES FACED

During the development and execution of the F.L.Y Entertainment Facebook Ads Practice Campaign, several practical challenges were encountered related to audience engagement, advertisement optimization, campaign setup, and content performance. These challenges provided valuable learning experience regarding the real-world workflow of digital advertising and campaign management within Meta platforms.

One of the primary challenges faced during the project was identifying the most effective advertisement creative for audience engagement. Static poster advertisements generated comparatively lower interaction than video-based advertisements, indicating that entertainment audiences respond more actively to dynamic visual content.

Another challenge involved understanding audience targeting and campaign optimization settings within Meta Ads Manager. Selecting appropriate interests, placements, and audience behavior parameters required continuous experimentation and performance monitoring to improve advertisement delivery and reach.

Budget management and campaign efficiency were also important learning areas during the project. Since the campaign operated on a limited daily budget, it was necessary to monitor spending carefully while maintaining consistent advertisement visibility and audience engagement.

Technical challenges such as unpublished edits, advertisement review delays, and understanding Meta performance metrics also affected the campaign workflow during initial stages. However, these issues were gradually resolved through campaign adjustments, platform learning, and optimization techniques.

Overall, these challenges helped improve practical understanding of digital marketing strategy, audience analysis, creative testing, campaign troubleshooting, and Meta advertising workflow within the entertainment marketing environment.

18. CONCLUSION

The F.L.Y Entertainment Facebook Ads Practice Campaign was a great example of how digital marketing works in the real world. It showed us how to use Meta's advertising tools to reach our target audience and create effective ads. We learned a lot from this project, including how to plan a campaign, target the right people, make ads, manage our budget, track how well our ads are doing, and make changes to improve our results. This was especially useful in the entertainment marketing industry, where we need to be creative and strategic to get people's attention.

The project really helped us figure out how to use Facebook and Instagram ads to get out how to more people to know about our brand, get them engaged, and make our social media presence stronger, for people who are into especially entertainment. We tried of ads, like posters and videos, to see how out different kinds would react and how well they would work. This people way, we could understand what people liked and what made with our content more. By them interact to learn a lot about how to make our doing this, we were able ads better and get more people interested in what we have to offer.

The campaign gave us hands-on experience with some really useful digital marketing tools like Meta Ads Manager and Meta Business Suite. We also got to work with Canva, which is great for creating visuals, and React.js, GitHub, and Netlify, which are all about building and hosting websites. What was really cool was how we could connect the dots between building a website and running social media ads - it all came together to give us a complete digital marketing experience.

During the campaign execution process, several challenges related to audience targeting, advertisement performance, optimization strategies, and campaign management were encountered and resolved through continuous monitoring and experimentation. These experiences contributed significantly to improving practical understanding of Meta advertising systems and digital campaign execution techniques.

Overall, this project successfully achieved its objectives by creating a professional entertainment brand campaign and developing practical knowledge of social media advertising, digital branding, and online audience engagement within a real-world marketing environment.
